

TODAY AT DWELL

PRODUCT »

iFoscarini App

1 comment

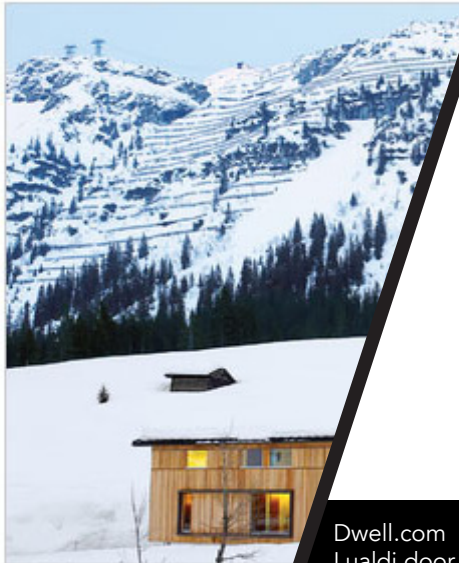

WHAT WE SAW »

Living in La

ARTICLE

EDITOR'S PICKS

High-Design Doors

Fifth-generation Italian manufacturer Lualdi just released its first collection of doors by American designers—namely by Dror Benshetrit, David Rockwell and Robert A.M. Stern. They're on pre-order now, and available for purchase starting in January.

By:

Jaime Gross

Published on:
10/11/2010

RELATED

Product Categories

Doors

Service Types

Designer
Retailer

Topics

Design
Architecture

View All

TOOLS

Sign in to Bookmark

Print

Email

Dror Benshetrit's door, above, has a diagonal fold that reveals the inside of the door frame; at first glance, it looks like the door is slightly ajar. The fold gives the door a two-toned depth that's especially dramatic in the fire-engine red version. "A high-end door is one that is visually flawless, has seamless gaps, and an amazing finish," says Benshetrit.

DON'T SUBS
GIVE A
CUST

