QuaDror' dividing screen by Studio Dror and Alpi

This screen is made of Alpi timber pieces interlocked in a revolutionary new space truss geometry invented and patented by Dror Benshetrit. The super-prolific designer believes the geometry has applications in trestle structures, emergency dwellings, sound barriers and more. You saw it here first.

Studio Dror
New York-based Dror Benshetrit was born in Tel Aviv and studied at the Eindhoven Design Academy. He designed the iconic 'Peacock Chair' for Cappellini, and is now planning the SoHo Synagogue in Manhattan. www.studiooror.com

Alpi
Set up in the Apennine mountains in 1919, Alpi has grown into one of Italy's premier timber, laminate and veneer producers. www.alpi.it
